

Ilmars Rimsevics: Latvia's Road to the Eurozone

28th February 2014, 18:30, LSE Hong Kong Theatre
More information: www.lsebalticsoc.co.uk

Dear Sir or Madam,

On behalf of the LSE SU Baltic Society and the LSE Centre for Macroeconomics it is my pleasure to extend to you the invitation to join us at our lecture series 'Baltics in the EU: Economic and Social Perspective'. In broad terms, the lecture series seek to explore the different stages of the Euro-integration that the Baltic States are at and what opportunities do these create economically and socially.

The first event, to be held on 28th February 2014, 18:30 at the LSE Hong Kong Theatre, is a lecture entitled 'Latvia's Road to the Eurozone', to be given by the Governor of the Central Bank of Latvia, Mr. ILMARS RIMSEVICIS. Mr. Rimsevics will discuss the recent introduction of the Euro in Latvia, including the economic developments after the restoration of independence that led to the Euro introduction, the opportunities and responsibilities it brings for Latvia as well as the future outlook of the Eurozone and Latvia's role in it.

All the information about the attendance and registration can be found in the official LSE SU Baltic Society website, lsebalticsoc.co.uk, and on the Facebook page, facebook.com/LseSuBalticSociety. Please do not hesitate to contact me any time if you have any further questions.

We look forward to seeing you at the event!

Sincerely,
Helga Gutmane
